Medical Plan Saved at Washington Meetings

Residents Here Assured Care For the Coming Winter Months; Marin City a Model for Nation

Residents of Marin City are assured of medical service for the coming winter. The Medical Center will continue service without interruption. These facts were made known today by Dr. E. A. Larson, director of the California Physicians Service.

This announcement follows a period of uncertainty as to whether the California Physicians Service would be able to continue to supply doctors and nurses to war housing projects because of unforeseen heavy operation costs.

Dr. Larson, William Reidy of the Federal Public Housing Authority and Judge Guy A. Ciocca, director of the Marin County Housing Authority, returned this week from Washington with these assurances from the Federal Public Housing Authority's national office that doctors and nurses would be provided in areas where the Procurement and Assignment Division of the War Manpower Commission designates need.

Marin City will continue with its pre-paid medical plan with necessary modifications, stated Dr. Larson. The monthly fee will remain the same, with only a few of the services being curtailed. This is a major victory for residents here because for some time there was grave danger that Marin City would be left without any form of medical services after September 30.

The new contract for medical care, being negotiated between the Marin City Council's medical committee and the California Physician's Service will not provide for maternity care after September 30. Tonsil and adenoid operations, except in emergencies will also be excluded from the plans benefits. Elective operations such as hernia and congential deformities will also be excluded.

All other medical and hospital care previously provided for have been retained for Marin City war workers and their families.

"The main reason we went to Washington," says Dr. Larson "was to preserve medical care in war housing projects. We now have governmental assurance that doctors will not be withdrawn from these critical areas.

"It's up to the tenants now to evince enough interest to keep the pre-paid plan going. We must have 95 per cent of the project population enrolled in the medical plan," Larson said.

"Marin City has been in the forefront," he continued, "pioneering in group medical insurance. Marin City will be the first project in the United States to adopt this new plan. This has largely been due to the leadership and community activity of Marin City residents, he stated.

"Success of this new plan will determine medical services in housing projects all over the United States.

"California's doctors have used this plan to make their contribution to the war effort. The California Physicians Service, which includes 95 per cent of the state's doctors is a non-profit organization."

Dr. Larson pointed out that a United States Department of Public Health prediction states that there will be more serious waves of diseases this winter than last. The mixture and shifting of the population will make this so he said.

"So," he said, "because the home front must be protected, this new assured medical service is more important than ever during the next war years."

Mock Air Raid Drill Tuesday A. M.

The long awaited mock air raid drill will definitely take place next Tuesday morning, September 14, at 11 o'clock, according to W. C. Lewis, chief air raid warden.

Marin City's new siren will be used for the drill. The siren is being used for fires and air raid alarms. The signal for fires is two sustained blasts. The signal for air raids is a series of fluctuating tones of two minutes duration. The all clear signal is a two minute sustained steady tone.

Upon hearing the siren next Tuesday morning, Chief Warden Lewis requests all wardens to report to the nearest telephone in their sector where they will be given further instructions and will be issued details by air raid checkers from the Marin County CD coordinator's office under the direction of Joe Bordanero. All wardens should be equipped with arm bands and their warden's report books according to Lewis.

First aid and control center workers from all shifts are invited to participate and are asked to be at the Marin City CD control center Tuesday at 10:30 A. M. to receive special instructions.

City Fire Volunteers Organize

Marin City's Volunteer Fire Department elected officers last Sunday, September 5, and generally got itself organized to meet with all emergencies that might come up.

Elected president of the volunters was Ted Roberts. Herbert Maasen was elected to the post of vice-president while Valentine Shirer was elected secretary-treasurer. John Marmelstein, a regular member of the fire department was made sergeant-at-arms.

Other members of the volunteer department are: Jack Speetzen, Ray Goodwin, Carl Kirby, Harmon Smith, Dan Lounsbury, Al Barden, A. M. Westin, Gordon McLaughlin, Jack Lisk and Robert Cooper.

The volunteers will respond to all calls in the city. Already they have held two practice drills under the direction of Fire Chief Rolf Bremer.

Town Hall To Hear Good Speakers

George Wilson, President of the San Francisco CIO Council and Walter Gordon, famous Negro football hero of the University of California and now assistant football coach at UC and an outstanding attorney, will be the principal speakers at the monthly Marin City American Town Meeting which will be held at the Community Center auditorium, Sunday, September 19, at 8 P. M.

Gordon has recently been appointed by the Governor of the state as the representative of his race on California's Post War Planning Commission. He is also west coast president of the NAACP.

The subject for discussion at the meeting will be "National Unity in War and Peace."

Following the speakers the audience will be given a chance to ask questions and discuss the subject.

This peoples' forum is being conducted under the sponsorship of the educational committee of the Marin City Council in the desire to afford the people of Marin City an easy opportunity to hear distinguished men without the trouble of traveling to San Francisco, according to Dr. N. W. Pendleton, committee chairman.

Mothers' Classes Called Off

Due to the shortage of nurses, the classes for expectant mothers which have been given bi-weekly at the Community Center by the Red Cross Nursing staff have been discontinued until some time in October.

City Women Serve on OPA Pricing Plan

The OPA launched its first effort toward regulation of its new "Community Pricing Plan" at a meeting in Mill Valley last Tuesday.

At this meeting, citizen committees were organized to assist Marin County stores in complying with the prices and other requirements in the Federal regulation.

O. Louis Leonetti of the Regional Price Division office instructed the new Price Panel assistants who later signed in as deputies for this area.

"The Price Panel in each area helps the merchant stay in compliance with the regulations and avoid consumer complaints. We have found that violations have been due to the inability of the merchant to understand regulations," said Leonetti.

"The Price Panel is not a policing agency, it cannot penalize the merchant. We only call his attention to error. Repeated violations would mean that the merchant would be turned over to the legal division of our office," he stated.

Women who are serving on the panel to make the new prices effective in Marin City are: Mrs. Charles Henson, Mrs. Darald Adams, Mrs. Verne Lindburg and Mrs. Michael Smith.

Come To CD Dance This Sunday

The second in the season's series of dances being given by the Marin City Civilian Defense organization will be held Sept. 12th. These dances are all being given on Sunday nights, to permit full participation by swing shifters, who have only the one night a week to enjoy this kind of recreation.

According to the committee in charge, composed of Floyd Michelsen, Hazel Dinsmore and Peggy Billingsley, arrangements are being made which include the music of Tony Martin and his eight-piece band and the usual soft-drink service. Admission, including tax, will be 75c and 50c, or a dollar two bits per couple. Dancing will be from 9 to 1.

New School Supervisor Elected Here

Clifton L. Boyle has been elected superintendent of the Sausalito school system and takes office today, according to an announcement made today by the Sausalito School Board.

Boyle, a graduate of San Jose State College and for the past 12 years director of child welfare and attendance in the Taft city schools, has a long record of successful school administration. He has served as principal of schools at Greenwood, Calif., and district superintendent at McCloud.

The new superintendent since the war has been an ardent civilian defense worker. He has served as a cubmaster of the Boy Scouts for five years.

Miss Gertrude J. Perry still remains as supervising principal of Central and Marin City schools, according to the board's announcement.

Marin City and Sausalito schools open on September 20.

New Fire Siren Signals Told

A new automobile fire siren has been installed on top of the fire station, according to Fire Chief Rolf Bremer.

The siren is automatically controlled. For fires, the siren will go on for 15 seconds, then off 5 seconds, then on 15 seconds more. Following a 35 second pause, the signal will be repeated.

The signal for an air raid and blackout will be fluctuating up and down blast continuing for 2 minutes without a break. The all-clear will be a steady blast continuing for 2 minutes.

One single blast of the siren will be a call for the chief of the department when he is out of the station.

Bay Area Tenants Hold Conference Next Month

Representatives Of 300,000 Residents Asked

A call to a conference of the 50,000 war workers who live in Bay Area housing projects is being issued next week by the tenant councils of 11 cooperating projects.

On Sunday, October 3, delegates from the sixty war emergency housing projects in the Bay Area will meet at this conference in Vallejo to form a unified organization.

In stating the purpose of the conference, the call says, ". . . . the government not only built houses for us but problems for us, too. Problems no one of us can solve, problems no one tenants' association can solve; problems which can only be solved if we group together and work together."

This conference will be the first time in the United States in which the residents of government housing have organized to bargain with the agencies which conduct the housing program.

"The aim of the conference and of the federation of projects which will grow out of it, is to provide the kind of war housing which will enable its residents to make their tumost contribution to the ar effort," says Michael B. Smith, chairman of the conference committee and chairman of the Marin City Council.

Conference plans grew out of meetings, during the last few months, of representatives of tenant councils from many Bay Area projects, who discovered that their experiences and living problems in these emergency housing towns were remarkably similar.

They found that they had in common: "garbage problems, health problems, child care, schools, and the problem of stores with a monopoly on their trade."

"The planners, the engineers, and the housing experts have had it all in their hands, and the solutions of our problems is low and not even undertaken. So we decided that the tenants, the people who live in the conditions wich the experts created, should also have a say in clearing up the bad conditions which still exist," stated Daniel Allen, Marin City Council delegate.

"All the projects are governed by the same regional housing agency. In the interests of efficiency, we propose that this new organization should speak for all of them as its democratically elected body. Instead of one project fighting alone for the things which we all need, we'll pool our resources and accomplish our aims together," said Smith.

Messersmith, vice-president, and Peggy Billingsley, treasurer, were also re-elected. Carrie Percy was elected secretary and also chosen to represent the organization on the City Council. Mrs. V. L. Merritt was elected corresponding secretary.

Old Fashioned Dancing Each Thursday Night

Because so many people seemed to enjoy the old fashioned dancing at the Birthday Party last Saturday evening, it has been decided to form an old fashioned dancing club which will meet in the auditorium of the Community House each Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, Daniel Alden, who took charge of the dancing Saturday announced. The old fashioned dancing club will replace the Folk Dance group.

Callers Elmer Moore, Noah Kirby and Frank Lewis have volunteered their services, as have Mrs. S. L. Frisbee, pianist, and J. W. Drath, fiddler.

Birthday Party Great Success; Many Helped

More than 700 people attended Marin City's first birthday party, according to Lloyd Messersmith, chairman of the arrangements committee.

Many persons helped to make the party one that will be long remembered. Among these were:

At the door—Harmon Smith, Robert Cooper, Tom Roberts, Bill Brusky and Tom Norton.

Refreshments — Mesdames Galbraith, James, Messersmith, Vanderwilt, Taylor, Siebert, Drath, Barden, San Jule and Norton, with Maxine Smith as chairman.

Decorations — Joyce Palmer, Beverly Phillips, Dorothy Williams, Larry Brown and Norma Stanley.

Eddie Burroughs, tap dancer, took first prize in the amateur contest, while Joyce Palmer, songstress, and Enid Dawson, accordionist, took second and third.

Fiddlers and callers provided much entertainment for the old fashioned dancing.

Forrest Span, Jr. returned to his former home in Vandusser, Missouri, to claim his bride, the former Louise Wyatt of that city. The newlyweds will make their home in Unit A-61 when they return to Marin City this week-end.

Mrs. D. E. Martin and children spent the week-end in Vallejo with relatives.

CD Donates $50 To Sausalito Soldiers' Center

The Day and Graveyard Civilian Defense regular monthly business and social meeting last Monday night was held in the Community Lounge and was well attended.

Business handled, in addition to routine matters, included the donation of $50.00 to the Sausalito Service Men's Club; and the selection of Mrs. E. L. James to head the volunteer women who will staff the local Control Center. Mrs. James is a former resident of Minnesota, where she was also very active in CD work, being the recipient of an award of honor for having served a thousand hours.

The business having been completed about 9:30 P. M. the meeting was adjourned for refreshments. The refreshment committee, Hazel Dinsmore, Marie Pendley, Carrie Percy, Giampoli served a delicious supper of apple pie a-la-mode and Peggy Billingsley, and Mrs. coffee, after which the entertainment committee, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mack and Joyce Palmer, took over, and cards and conversation made things interesting until a late hour.

All members present report a most satisfactory meeting, and are already looking forward to the first Monday evening in October for a repetition of this enjoyable occasion.

Day Care Is Boon To City Say Mothers

Day care for the children of Marin City's working mothers first began last December with four children enrolled in the nursery school and a staff of two teachers, one housekeeper and one cook to care for them.

Today, in response to Marinship's call for women workers, mothers have enrolled 38 boys and girls of pre-school age in the same nursery which has been expanded to meet the growing need.

The child center for school age children opened the middle of August, 1943, and has grown to 20 enrolled children to date.

Head teacher of the nursery school is Miss Carmen Hotten, who has been with the nursery since opening day.

Miss Roberta Winans is supervisor of all the child care in Marin City.

Resident 71 Years At Marin City Site; Watched Changes

Seventy-one years ago a little girl named Amelia came to the marsh land and woods of Waldo.

Today, Mrs. Amelia Fernandez, who is now 77 years old, is still here.

Last year, Mrs. Fernandez sat on the porch of her small yellow house and watched Marin City grow, marveling that anythink like this should ever happen to quiet Waldo.

Her father had one of the first "bus" lines in the county. The bus was a wagon with seats and side curtains, pulled by four horses. It went between here and Sausalito, and was hired for fishing trips and camping parties.

In those days, says Mrs. Fernandez' daughter, Mrs. Amelia Margaret Fossus, a stream carried scows laden with fodder right up to where the Marin City post office now stands.

All that section was marsh land and good duck hunting for young Amelia, who was a crack shot.

But there wasn't time for hunting and riding in those early days, according to Mrs. Fossus.

Her mother helped run the farm, raised four children and managed a self-sustaining pioneer household.

Rare trips to Sausalito replenished the family larder. San Francisco seemed a long journey then. They'd take the wagon and team to Sausalito and then catch the weekly ferry to the city. If you missed the ferry you waited a week for the next one.

Mrs. Fossus remembers the excitement when train service, two trips a week, was finally started here.

One of Mrs. Fernandez' best friends in those days was Mary Richardson, one of the last Indians in this part of the country, and the adopted daughter of Mr. Richardson, after whom Richardson's bay was named, and who owned most of this section of the county at that time.

Mrs. Fernandez' children can well remember this old Indian woman, who lived to be well over 100 years old, calling on their mother.

The children can also remember walking to school in Sausalito, sometimes in mud up to their knees and in the winter so cold that the teacher had to thaw out their hands before school started.

"And yet," said Mrs. Fossus, "I never missed a day of school in eight years."

Sometimes they hitch-hiked on the dairy wagons carrying milk to the little comunity of Sausalito, and every Sunday the entire family dressed in their best and drove the team and wagon to church there.

VETERAN

Joan Leslie, Warner Bros. 18-year-old star, can call herself a veteran of two wars, and that is news. Of course, this is cinematically speaking. It began with her role opposite Gary Cooper in "Sergeant York," and now Joan is cast in Irving Berlin's "This is the Army," the all-army show now being filmed on the Warner lot.

Collect Tin Next Sunday

Mrs. Robert G. Cooper, chairman of Marin City's salvage committee, announces that on Sunday, September 12, there will be a pickup of tin cans throughout the city.

Mrs. Cooper urges everyone to bring their cans to the salvage bin just south of the Medical Center not later than Saturday evening as the collection is made early on Sunday morning.

Appeal To Join Seabees Made By Greyhound

If you are a skilled American construction worker, you can help win the war now by joining the Navy's building-fighting Seabees. Thousands more of such men are needed at once.

Such is the message carried in current Greyhound advertisements appearing in more than 500 newspapers of Calif., Oregon, Nevada, Arizona, Utah, New Mexico and parts of Texas. This wide newspaper coverage in the West was decided upon due to the urgency of the situation and to the fact that, with the Aris reeling under repeated Allied blows, the time to strike is when the iron is hot. And the Seabees, it was pointed out, can help deliver the "Sunday punch."

"Follow your trade in the Navy," says Greyhound. "For men who itch to get in the thick of things, the Seabees offer action. They're a tough, hard-hitting organization of specialists who build bases and help hold them, repair battle-damaged ships and other Navy equipment, back up the combat line with tools and guns."

Mechanics, carpenters, electricians, shovel operators, pipefitters, steel workers, riggers, divers, draftsmen — these are only a few of many craftsmen needed in the Seabees. Red-blooded men from 17 to 50½ are eligible. Full information may be obtained at your nearest Navy recruiting station. In this area it is at Room 64, Federal Building, San Francisco.

In devoting its advertising space to the Seabees, Greyhound is following its practice of serving the armed forces first. In addition to many other wartime activities, Greyhound long has provided vital transportation for the Seabees, getting them to and from mainland jobs and embarkation points. This essential war service is one of the reasons why the company now urges civilians: "Please don't travel unless absolutely necessary."

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bender and sons Ed and Richard Lee spent Sunday in Alameda with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mitchell. It was Richard Lee's first ferry trip, since he is but two months old.

Toby Allen has as his house guest this week, his cousin, Gregory Keller, from Inverness.

Jewelry Drive Started Here For Soldiers

All residents of Marin City are asked to get together all discarded jewelry in anticipation of a drive which began at the birthday party last Saturday night. Purpose of the drive is to accumulate a supply of such jewelry to be forwarded to our fighting men in jungle territory for trading with the natives.

The drive is being sponsored by the Marin City Women's Club and will be under the leadership of Mrs. J. P. Dunn. She will be assisted by Inez Hinnencamp, Mildred Messersmith, Peggy Billingsley, Mrs. Fred Bassett, Ethel Johnson, Hazel Dinsmore, Attie Brocharo, Helen Wolenta and Mrs. H. E. Champman. All who wish to help are asked to contact Mrs. Dunn at A6-309.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Reed will be very sorry to hear that they are leaving Marin City next week, and will make their home in El Paso, where both will be employed by the Southern Pacific railroad.

Teeners will not necessarily have to come in couples. If they have a formal and are without a man they should come anyway.

Garden Exhibits Show Value Of Planting Crops

By Helen Van Pelt

We were proud indeed of our display of vegetables from the Victory Gardens at the birthday party last Saturday night. Mrs. Reed arranged it so well that it added a very colorful note to the evening. There were ohs and ahs of surprise from visitors and judges alike at the size and quality of the vegetables and many blue ribbons were earned.

The three judges of the exhibits were all people of long experience in both growing vegetables themselves and observing vegetables growing in Marin county. They were M. B. Boissevain, county farm advisor for the past 20 years; Mrs. H. D. Hildebrant, long time leader of 4-H Clubs and a teacher at San Rafael High School; and Miss Edith Waterman, head of Marin County's Red Cross and a famous amateur vegetable gardener.

Our Victory Gardens are well past the experimental stage. We know we can add materially to our food supply. Now is the time to take a new start. We'll want to be eating fresh vegetables in December and January just as much as now. By then they will be much more expensive in the markets.

So pull out the last of the peas and beans as they finish their yielding and use the last of the turnips and cabbage. Then fertilize the ground. The Garden Center can supply you with various kinds in the quantity you need. Plant your winter garden now.

'Teeners Dance Rumba and Conga

The teeners have a dancing class—in Latin dances, the rumba and conga particularly. Mrs. Ray Howard, for some years a noted dancing teacher, is beginning a series of classes for the teeners on their Friday dance nights, beginning next Friday. If the classes prove popular, as they undoubtely will, others may be added for more elerly dancers, who still have a little life left.

GOOD FOOD NEWS

Each week we will print the recipes turned in to "The Marin Citizen" boxes by Marin City women. Spread your good food news around. Send in your favorite recipes today.

COUS-COUS

Webster defines a "cous-cous" as any dish made of cooked cereal, such as rice, wheat or millet, garnished with meat and gravy. In this day of plentiful cereals and scanty meats, the cous-cous turns out to be a very versatile and useful dish.

Here is an example of what we might call an "Icebox Cous-Cous." Suppose the bit of meat means the last scraps attached to a leg of lamb. Perhaps you have a cup of gravy, too. Start out by putting a cup of rice on to boil in about three cups of water. Salt it, and then look around for seasonings. A cup of chopped celery might go in now, to cook with the rice, and some onion. Parsley is good, but make it plenty—half a cup, chopped fine. Green pepper is excellent, and if you grow your own herbs, chop and add half a teaspoonful each of fresh thyme and marjoram. (If you don't grow any herbs, come around and see mine, and get some slips.)

Cook this mixture until the rice is done, adding more water or other liquid if necessary. Now add the cut-up lamb and the gravy, and look the dish over. Does it look good? Try a dash of soy sauce for color and flavor. Now dump the whole thing into a casserole, and bake until dinner is ready. By adding more or less liquid, you can have it ready to eat in 15 minutes or an hour.

The same procedure will do with fish, fresh or canned, or with any other cooked meat. With kidneys or heart, cut up and brown the meat first, and add in the same way, when rice is done. Or the rice itself may be whole wheat, which must be cooked longer, or corn meal—but that turns the dish into Polenta. Still, under any name it is fine food.

—Mrs. Daniel Allen.

SHORT-CUT ONION SOUP

By exposing my recipe in the public columns of this paper, I shall lose the admiring awe with which food connoisseurs always greeted the onion soup bowl.

Because this swank French soup, usually surrounded in mysterious preparations, can be whipped up very simply in cooperation with the Campbell Company.

To begin with, you're on your own. Just saute three or four large onions in two tablespoons of fat (butter), put the cover on the pan and let them simmer and steam gently for a few minutes.

Then add two cans of Campbell's bouillon (beef broth) with the equivalent of a can of water—and there you are.

Let it simmer as long as you can, from five minutes to four hours will do it.

If you have leisure for such niceties, prepare a bowl of toast squares to add at the very last minute before eating. Parmisello grated cheese, for those who like it, is the final crowning touch.

—Mrs. Michael Smith.

Flash Receivers Asked To Go To Yard Doctor

At the request of Dr. Richmond, Marinship doctor, the only treatment the Medical Center is giving those who have suffered flashes is a castor oil eye bath, Miss Ethel Lilley, head nurse, announces.

According to Miss Lilley, this is to safeguard the workmen's compensation of those receiving flashes and to prevent obscuring further diagnosis. All flash receivers should go to the yard doctor for treatment, Miss Lilley said.

Women's Club To Have Booth At Grape Festival

Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, chairman of the pie booth for Marin City at the anuual Grape Festival, has a large committee to work with her in collecting and baking a large number of pies for the occasion.

Many women are contributing materials and points for the pies to women who are excellent pie bakers. In this way it is felt Marin City's contribution will be a noteworthy collection of home baked pastries.

The committee includes to date Mrs. Robert Cooper, Mrs. Julius Alsberg, Mrs. George Hinnencamp, Mrs. W. C. Billingsley, Mrs. F. Leander, Mrs. Ray Howard, Mrs. Louis Bright, Mrs. Harmon Smith, Mrs. J. W. Stohr, Mrs. R. C. Bloomquist, Mrs. Art Wolenta, and Mrs. John Kahrt.

Tea and Art Show For Marin Artist

Miss Oma Perry, well known Marin County artist whose paintings have had a wide showing, is to be honored at a tea and exhibition on Wednesday, September 15, at the Community Center. The Marin City Women's Club is sponsoring the exhibit.

At the tea club chairmen will function in their usual way. Mrs. John Kahrt, president of the Women's Club, is in charge of the program. Mrs. George Galbraith will be in charge of refreshments. Mrs. B. C. Bloomquist is head of the hospitality committee and Mrs. W. C. Billingsley is house committee chairman.

The affair will last from 1 to 9 p. m.

Swell floor, swell music, swell time — Sept. 12, Community Auditorium.

Women's Club Meet Sees Color Films

Colored movies made the September meeting of the Women's Club Wednesday night of unusual interest. Mrs. Stella Skinner and Mrs. Myra Peplinger of the Good Will Industries in San Francisco brought two films in color and sound, talked about the work of the Goodwill.

Mrs. Sidney Peters, Mrs. Walter Baldwin, and Mrs. Bernhard Schmidt presented to the club colored films taken by Mrs. Schmidt of the grounds and activities at Sunnyhills orphanage. Mrs. Peters spoke about the orphanage, invited the community to attend the Grape Festival on October 2d.

The Marin Club's Grape Festival committee, in charge of a pie booth at the fair, has a chairman, Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, elected at the meeting. Mrs. Johnson was also elected corresponding secretary, to take the place of Mrs. George Engels, whose new home is to be Los Angeles. Mrs. Robert Cooper, Mrs. Louis Bright, and Mrs. J. W. McGuire were elected to the board pending their acceptance. The resignation of Mrs. Rolf Bremer, because of other duties, was regretfully accepted. A chairman of the club's child welfare section is to be elected, with a volunteer particularly interested in this work being sought.

After the program and business meeting, Mrs. Galbraith's tea committee for the evening served refreshments. Those who served were Mrs. Dan Allen, Mrs. Louis Bright, and Mrs. Julius Alsberg. Other guests of the club included Mrs. E. L. James, Mrs. Ellis Seibert, Mrs. Willard Taylor, Mrs. R. Van der Wilt, Mrs. Arlene Willett, and Mrs. Zoe L. Matthews.

Church Auxiliary Holds First Fall Meeting

The Women's Auxiliary of the Community Church, after several weeks' vacation, held the first of the fall series of gatherings last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. N. C. Nelson of Marin City gave a very interesting story of her experiences as a worker with the United Charities of Chicago, dealing especially with the work for children in the city's summer camp for handicapped children.

Visitors from Sausalito told of the work being carried on there for the entertainment of service men and invited the local women to act as hostesses once a month.

Mrs. Ethel Cook, the vice president, was in the chair and Mrs. Verne Lindberg the leader in a program of interesting games, while refreshments were served by Mrs. V. Koch and Mrs. Darald Adams.

Plans were outlined for the social service program of the fall and winter.

Women at War

Janey

Janey closed the bedroom door and locked it. Alone at last! She threw back her head and heaved a deep sigh. Then she peeked out of the corner of her eye at the mirror to see whether she really did look like Hedy LaMarr. Quite a lot, she decided.

And now to business. She drew forth from the bottom of her top bureau drawer the sheet of pink writing-paper and the envelope that she had been saving for this day. She sat down at the table by the window and dipped the pen into the bottle of green ink that her sister Rose was such a pig about. She wrote, with beautiful arabesques, "Dear Mr. Morgenthau," and held her head back to admire this effort of the best pupil in penmanship class.

"Here are my stamps for a bond. $18.75. I started last Christmas when I got $3.00. Not counting 50 cents, I have earned all the rest, working one or more days a week at a local grocery store, and I'm quite proud to say I worked hard to get it."

Janey stared out of the window at Peterson's house and beyond at the big yard where the kids were playing football. She held her pen elegantly in air.

"Sitting here looking out the window, I see a peaceful little town, and I wonder how the world can be in such a turmoil and the people of this world can have such hate for their fellow men. So I'm proud to send these stamps because I know I'm helping to make the whole world peaceful again like our little town."

She signed her name with an important flourish, not forgetting a conspicuous "Miss" in front of the "Janey." After she had sealed the letter she went on staring out of the window. It really was awfully peaceful. Overhead she heard a plane go humming by through the sunny afternoon air.

Then the voice of her best friend, Betty, called from outside—"Jan-ey!" In an instant Janey was on her feet and tearing downstairs and out. She was not Hedy LaMarr nor a deep philosopher any more, but exactly twelve years old.

Sausalito-Marin City Placed in CD Danger Zone

Precautions Relaxed In Most of the Other California Defense Zone

In a just announced classification by the State War Council, of California cities into three Civilian Defense zones, Marin City and Sausalito only, of all Marin County cities, has been placed in zone one, the "danger zone, subject to direct enemy attack."

With the classification, the War Council recommended some slackening of civilian defense activity in all but first zone areas, and the "stepping-up of civilian defense to greater efficincy than ever in zone one." From county CD headquarters it was announced today that this recommendation has yet to be acted upon. J. C. Bordanero, county coordinator, is away and could not be reached at press time for a statement.

The first zone area comprises chiefly the San Francisco bay area, Los Angeles and San Diego areas. The classification was drawn up by staff officers of the Northern and Southern California sectors of the Western Defense Command and the Fourth Army and approved by their commanding generals.

The new designation means greater activity in the fire protection and police departments of Civilian Defense, a local CD office representative said today. As far as could be determined today, the change will not affect the CD setup here a great deal, except increased activity and more volunteers needed in the two departments mentioned, and a need for more fire and emergency medical equipment.

A change, which will affect the air raid wardens, goes into effect this week, whereby there will no longer be a need for a warden to always be within hearing of a telephone, so that all wardens could be warned ahead of time of a coming air raid. For the first time since Civilian Defense was set up, wardens will not be notified in advance, but will report to their posts when the general alarm sounds.

Three Zones

The three zones are (1) along the coast, "subject to direct enemy attack"; (2) farther inland, "containing secondary objectives of direct enemy attack and/or areas that vitally contribute to any number one area, and (3) "all areas of the state not included in areas one or two."

The War Council plan calls for maintenance only of skeleton air raid warden organizations in zone two and complete disbanding of warden systems in zone three with blackout enforcement taken over by the auxiliary police. In zones two and three other civilian defense organizations would be either combined into smaller groups or disbanded.

The War Council plan is to be presented to the Ninth Regional Civilian Defense Board Friday, and it is expected that the board would follow the recommendation of the Army authorities.

Rambling Goat Looks Over Dorm Buildings

By JOHN J. SYMON

It's been some few days ago now, but when the goat got into dormitory A and just wouldn't leave, it provided one of the too few incidents that break up the sometimes dreary existence we lead here at Wilson's Wigwams.

It did just that: got in, wouldn't leave and gave us a laugh. We thank him.

Late one night, a week or so ago, a riot call went out to the watchman. A wild beastie was promenading the hall of Dorm A, strutting his stuff and scaring some good Yard-birds to drink and good absentees off'n it. A bewhiskered billy from the farm just off Stumble street had jumped from rock to rock, braved the odors of the cafeteria and had found himself on the luscious sward of the Dorm.

The painters had been at work that day and the door was propped open to let out the smell. Well, the goat figured, that makes it even. One out and one in. So here me go. He liked it all. And especially the shower room. We know he was there. And the whole length of the hall. But such meandering had to end.

Brave Soul, the watchman, with true toreador spirit, was upon Mr. Wm. before he had as much as sampled a doorknob. But suasion, both moral and physical, were no go. That goat knew the company he was keeping and was well satisfied. Our ever-gallant yeoman of the guard buckled down to his task and muttering something like sixty-five cents an hour — ejected, evicted the hollow-horned ruminant. But the fun wasn't over.

That bunch of wild men in Dormitory J—the kids from the NYA—got hold of him and put him through his paces. Them's paces, brother! When that groggy, odiferous creature was released he was far fom the nimble four-footer that had started such an innocent journey. He'd thought he could win.

You can see him still—at times. From the highest of the hills, sadly shaking his head in the direction of J.

It's little items like this that make big paragraphs like these.

New War Book Tells of Tokyo Bombing Raid

"Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," by Captain Ted W. Lawson, edited by Robert Considine, (Random House); $2.

This is a first-hand story of a "dangerous mission." Captain Ted W. Lawson, a native of California, piloted a B-23, "The Ruptured Duck," over Tokyo in April, 1942. He narrates marvelously how he worked himself through Los Angeles Junior College while working during the night eight hours in the Douglas Aircraft plant; how they had been prepared in absolute secrecy for the mission.

They did not know where they were supposed to go until the take-off from the U. S. S. Hornet. Incidentally, when they flew under the Golden Gate Bridge previously, they figured that they did this to thrill the photographers.

The 30 seconds over Tokyo themselves are actually one of the least interesting parts of the record. It becomes more interesting after the crash-landing on the coast of China.

Chinese peasants rescued Lawson, who lost one leg during this action, and his crew. They did not understand their language, but they responded with a sympathetic humming "part mournful, part incredulous," and they did everything they could to bring the flyers to safety. This Odyssey is wonderfully written.

During the raid 11 out of 79 Americans were captured or killed; 16 planes landed in China, one in Russia. The landed ships—if any were usable—were to be delivered under the lend-lease to the Chinese government. Read this book and you'll be still more sure: We'll lick the Japs!—J. P. A.

JUNIOR TEAM CINCHES TITLE TO COUNTY BASEBALL LEAGUE

Marin City cinched the title to the Marin County Junior Baseball League last Sunday when our team defeated San Anselmo by a score of 10 to 6.

Marin City scored five runs in the opening inning, three in the fourth and two in the fifth. San Anselmo scored four in the sixth and two in the eighth.

In the first inning, San Anselmo's first three batters hit to first, second and short, but Foote put on the pressure and no runs were scored.

In the sixth, Foote hurt his arm and allowed four runs. In spite of his injury he allowed only five hits.

Next Sunday Marin City plays Sausalito in a game which should be somewhat on the gruesome side. Several of the Marin City players have felt the urge to play other positions and some of the team members have not played too many games so Sunday they play where they choose. The outcome is anybody's guess.

THE FISH

By Uncle Louie

One of the finest runs of stripers in two years showed up Saturday and Sunday in the southwestern part of the bay. All the "old timers" and some of the "not so old timers" took a goodly toll of the fish.

These were some of the scrappiest bass I've met up with in a long time—not so very large, 3 to 18 pounds, but fresh from the ocean and as fat as fish can be.

These visitors are still in and around China Camp and Tiburon and will be found under the same ieal conitions this coming week end.

With lots of good bait in the market everybody should score.

From now on until the last of November there will be plenty of good fishing, either trolling or bait-casting. In this respect, if there are any of our readers who would like to learn the game, we would like to announce that in the near future a school for angling, tackle making, knot tying and other features will be added to the sports ritual of our city.

Write in and tell us how you like the idea of such a school. We don't know it all, but what we do know after 50 years of fishing on the bay we are willing to share with you.

Last Saturday evening two Marinship workers came down to a small beach where we were. They had their tackle already rigged. They had just left the job after work. They baited up, threw out, and shortly one was tied into a bass which he landed— 11 pounds — and the other smacked into one weighing 8 pounds. They quickly folded up and went home—two happy fishermen.

The tide will be OK all day next Saturday and Sunday. Don't forget to take along an extra line. Go after 'em and good luck!

City Flyweights Capture Fancy

In their first appearance since they fought at Treasure Island, the two Marin City flyweights, Clark and Wright, again captured the fancy of the crowd at the Labor Day fights at San Rafael. These youngsters have set an enviable record, being universally well received, and even heading the show at Treasure Island, a very unusual feat in the sports world.

Lloyd LaBreacht adds to our boxing news by announcing that boxing classes are open Thursday nights and that all who are interested should sign up. All equipment is furnished. Boys under 16 should have their parents consent.

Did You Know

That one guaranteed quiet place, which can be viewed from Marin City hills, is across Richardson's Bay, to Strawberry Point, where there is a nuns' retreat, and the sisters stroll quietly on the empty hills across from our teeming, clanking war center.

* * *

That rum-runners put in for oil at what is now Madden and Lewis, that once a man was found dead on the dock after a prohibition tangle, that from Waldo hills on a clear night one could occasionally see a revenue cutter chasing and shooting after fishing boats, that they used to say the wind in Sausalito rained whisky.

* * *

That likewise the shipyard was once a lovely beach, the distillery a Chinese shack which dispensed clams. That the refuse from the distillery filled the bay and dirtied up the hundreds of sailing boats which bedded down around the Sausalito Yacht Club, the old building on Bridgeway. That once a gal dancing without clothes was seen through the windows of said Yacht Harbor. That where Borden's ice cream parlor once was the most popular place to get crab and beer, where Mama Kitchenmacher, a famous opera star, with many diamonds glittering on her generous front, sat every day at the piano at time for ferry-boat landings and sang opera to attract the customers.

This is the column that should have appeared last week but somehow it got crowded out in the shuffle of making up the birthday edition.

It's way back in the limbo of time now, but I still appreciate the striped bass Mr. Pittroff (or Uncle Louie, as he signs his fish column) gave me in response to my howl about bad luck on other people's fishing. Made me homesick for fried channel catfish, corn bread and 'lasses and baked sweet 'taters. Guess where I'm from.

Nothing has been done on the south playground in some time —that is on the play equipment. Wonder if they're through or if they're busy somewhere else? Must be busy someplace else there are still a lot of games marked out.

That was quite a party last Saturday night at the Community Center. I heard there were people there who had never been inside the Center.

There were plenty who enjoyed the old fashioned dancing too. Sure hope they find out about the same kind of dancing every Thursday night at the same place. All in all, the party was quite a success and here's my vote for more and better ones. Seems like the council should set up an entertainment committee so that parties could be held, say, once a month. If you think so too, how about talking it up and getting council busy on it?

Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Kirkpatrick and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson visited San Jose, Calif. last Sunday, and while there they explored the famous Winchester Mystery House.

Mrs. Pauline Tupman and Mrs. Lucille Glas entertained at the latter's home with a surprise stork shower in honor of Mrs. Dorothy Kindig, Tuesday August 24. After several games of "Bingo" the honored guest was presented with a lovely assortment of gifts. Those attending the shower were: Mesdames L. H. Wilson, Donie Batterman, Lunetta Abernathy, Ruth Crowe, Marian Walker, Lucile Cox, Helen Schmidt, Miss Irene Barr, the honoree and hostesses.

A GOOD JOB DONE

Dr. E. A. Larson, director of the California Physician's Service; William Reidy of the regional staff of the Federal Public Housing Authority, and Judge Guy A. Ciocca, executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority are to be congratulated for the good job they have just done in the nation's capital in making sure that medical service would continue for war workers' housing projects throughout the West.

When these three men left for Washington two weeks ago it was doubtful whether there would be any medical service available at all after September 30 for the hundreds of thousands of war workers living in Federal projects. This would have been nothing short of catastrophic. With hundreds of doctors and nurses serving in the armed forces, most communities are far too short of medical care even for their normal populations. To throw the medical needs of hundreds of thousands of war workers on top of these already overworked doctors and nurses would have brought a complete breakdown of public health throughout the entire West.

Marin City has long been in the forefront in providing complete medical and hospital care for its residents. The lack of epidemics and serious diseases experienced here has only been one result of the medical plan made possible by the participation of all of our residents. Residents of other housing projects throughout the entire nation are organizing themselves to establish what we have in too many cases taken for granted for many months.

The fact that the California Physicians' Service found it impossible to operate its services in housing projects because of expenses much higher than originally anticipated only brought into focus the tragic picture of such projects with no medical service at all.

The fact that Dr. Larson, William Reidy and Judge Ciocca were able to work out a solution to the problem in Washington is at one and the same time a tribute to their powers of description, a proof that war workers' health is extremely important to war production and a great compliment to the work done in Marin City—which was held up as an example of what could be accomplished all over the state and nation.

Now that we are assured of a continuance of medical care, we know of hundreds of mothers who will breathe a sigh of relief because they know their children will be protected. We know many score of workers who will go to their jobs feeling better for knowing that their families will be taken care of when emergencies arise.

A vote of thanks to the three men on the successful completion of their mission to Washington.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. JULIUS ALSBERG

Morning sickness is a disease very well known to all expectant mothers. It is a fact that more than one-half of all pregnant women suffer from some kind of nausea and vomiting. This sickenss may vary from very slight forms to very severe types in which immediate help may be necessary. Too much loss of fluid from the body endangers life.

In the slight form the women only notice some nausea and a sense of repugnance to foods. Most of the time the person is able to eat in spite of the nausea, but sometimes the following vomiting is so severe that the fluid loss becomes dangerous. The morning sickness commences around the fourth to sixth week of pregnancy and terminates during the third or fourth month. It can start earlier and may last longer. Only very seldom does it go into the second half of pregnancy.

The cause of the sickness is still unknown. One explanation which seems to be rather likely is as follows: "The symptoms . . . are a perverted effort on the part of the unconscious mind to reject the state of pregnancy." The fact that some women can be cured only by psychotherapy seems to indicate the psychic origin.

The increased demand of the baby for carbohydrates may be a cause of the sickness. Too great a loss of carbohydrates damages the protective power of the liver so that various toxins, which are ordinarily eliminated by the liver, enter the circulation. Vomiting increases the loss of fluid and consequently the loss of carbohydrates. The replacement by mouth is often impossible. Glucose given into the blood stream (intravenously) is here the treatment of choice. Sometimes a diet rich in carbohydrates is very helpful. It is also known that a pregnancy is connected with a deficiency of Vitamin B Complex. Large doses of this vitamin are very effective.

Every expectant mother may keep this in mind: The morning sickness is mostly a transient sickness. It only very seldom endangers life and usually terminates after the first third of the pregnancy.

STAMP COLLECTING

Dear Editor:

In these days of little gas, rubber, etc., philately is a wonderful hobby to acquire or further.

Termed the "King of hobbies and hobby of Kings," collecting stamps is really all that's claimed for it. Many of history's famous names were and are stamp collectors. President Roosevelt and the late King George both began their collections when only ten years of age.

Not long ago, President Roosevelt went into a postoffice to buy some newly-issued stamps for his collection. Controlling millions, he only had a dime and had to borrow from one of his bodyguards to get his stamps.

Here is an example proving to whom stamp collecting is available. If any boy started collecting in 1900, and bought every U. S. stamp issued until 1920, his collection in 1940 would have had a catalogue value of $4,500. His expenses would have amounted to about 75 cents a month, or a total of about $170 in the 20 years.

There are many cases where a collector became in need of funds and his collection was immediate and satisfactory collateral for a sale or loan.

Susceptibly educational, one learns history, geography, languages, etc., in philately. It is sufficiently intriguing to occasionally cause people to prefer working with their collections over some other pleasure.

As yet unorganized, there are a number of collectors in Marin City. If they will get in touch with W. A. Phipps, Unit A-49, Apt. 607, or mail their addresses to Box 313, a list can be completed. A move will then be possible to effect a club where trading, auctioning and buying can be indulged in.

W. A. Phipps.

THE... SOAP... BOX...

By THE EDITOR

This week we would like to throw a bushel basket or two of orchids in the general direction of those Marin City people who help make possible the publication of "The Marin Citizen."

Perhaps the largest assortment of these tropical flowers should be placed at the feet of Paula Norton, who has been in on the paper since its birth and who every week since has worked long hours and walked many miles up and down our city's hills in the collection and writing of much of the news you've read. This, despite the fact that she rides herd on two beautiful, but young and obstreporous offspring and takes care of a welder husband who himself loses many hours of sleep by diligently taking care of his duties as a member of the Marin City Council.

Jean Barden is another upon whom we look with pride and tender a floral offering. She also helped bring our paper into the world and has put much of her energy into making it one of the best weeklies in the state.

Dorothy Smith, whose original stories most of you have read with interest and have been informed of some phase of our city's life thereby, is one of the best newspaperwomen we know. Her ability to get facts and interview people has given our paper a metropolitan touch that few weeklies achieve

Without Harmon Smith, with his experience of years in the newspaper business, our paper would have had a greatly troubled road to travel. His work with the paper has taken him far into the night many nights. This kind of community spirit is what has made our city famous.

Tex McLaughlin, gatherer of sports and looser of thunderbolts, has livened a page that in most weeklies is either nonexistent or deadly in its boredom. His sports static can come over our radio any day.

Joyce Palmer, leader of our city's 'teen agers, has brought to the paper a diligence of effort and a commonsense that might well be envied by many older persons.

Peggy Billingsley has been responsible for the personal items which make our paper one of interest to hundreds of people.

Lloyd Messersmith has already been thrown an orchid for the work he and his gang of kids do in seeing that the paper is delivered to all of Marin City's homes. We herewith pin another one on him.

To Mary Galbraith with her recipes, Mrs. Victor Wollman and her Red Cross news; to Dr. Pendleton and Father O'Flynn; to W. C. Billingsley and W. C. Lewis of CD; and to John Synon of the Dorm we cast most of the remaining orchids.

The rest of our orchids we would like to present to those of you who for the past two months have been putting your news in "The Marin Citizen" boxes at the Community Center and the market. More of this news is put in the boxes each week. This is one of the chief reasons for the life of our paper.

Getting out a newspaper is not an easy job. It may look easy—but you can't stretch type and you can't condense it either. We thought these words were due—past due in fact—so that all might know the job that has been done and who has done it.

Dance to Tony Martin's music at the Community Auditorium, Sunday night, Sept. 12th.
